Area's 17th Fatality

Woman Killed by Truck On Rain-Swept Crossing

Husband, Friend Suffer Injuries

A Victoria woman was struck by a cartage truck and killed yesterday as she crossed a city intersection with her husband and another woman.

Mrs. Grace White, 58, 429 Quebec, died in St. Joseph's Hospital two hours after the 4.10 p.m. accident at Douglas and Herald during a heavy rainfall. She was this year's 17th traffic fatality in the Greater Victoria area.

Her husband, William White, 67, and Mrs. Leona Daniels, 63, 941 Cloverdale, also were struck and injured.

CONDITION 'FAIR'

Mrs. Daniels was reported in "fair" condition late last night with head and arm injuries. Mr. White, who suffered abrasions and possible internal injuries, was reported in "satisfactory" condition.

Police said the three were crossing Douglas Street from west to east in the south pedestrian lane when a Dowell's Cartage Co. truck struck them. Driver was identified as Herbert A. Roberts, 26, 907 Dunsmuir.

The truck was travelling south, eyewitnesses said. Heavy rain was falling at the time.

'World Evil Loosed'

NEW DELHI (Reuters)

— Prime Minister Nehru said Friday the Anglo-French attack on Egypt has "let loose evil forces which are driving the world toward destruction."

He condemned both the Anglo-French action and the Soviet oppression in Hungary. "The world stands facing great danger," Nehru said. "It may be that the little wars we have had are only the first round and bigger conflicts lie ahead."

"The only hope lies in the United Nations, representing the world community, succeeding in putting an end to law of force and substituting for it a more civilized method of dealing with problems."

Arab mother and children are walking through fire-ravaged Arab quarter of Port Said, now occupied by Franco-British forces. Allies say they will leave when UN force takes over.

Bowling Scores Strike

Bowling for youngsters is fast becoming a major sport in Victoria and in Sunday's issue of The Islander, the magazine section of The Daily Colonist, a staff writer tells of the building of the league by a small and dedicated group.

There are many other bright features, as well, including the regular contributors' articles by G. E. Mortimore and J. K. Nesbitt. Alec Merriman and Cecil Clark write respectively on a chicken factory and the western square dance craze.

LONDON (Reuters) — The start of gasoline rationing in Britain after Christmas seemed a certainty Friday because of blockage of the Suez Canal and the cutting of several pipelines in the turbulent Middle East.

Coldwell Urges:

Help Satellites Gain Freedom

OTTAWA (CP) — CCF leader Coldwell said Friday night that Canada must do everything in her power, through economic aid and new trade policies, to help the countries of Eastern Europe assert their independence of Moscow.

Since the Second World War the economies of the Communist satellite countries had been geared to Russia's; their trade had been directed away from the West, and Western policies had assisted and encouraged that development.

"We must take steps to reverse this trend, to encourage the development of a new pattern of trade away from Russia and toward the Western countries."

"Furthermore, we must adopt generous programs of economic assistance, without any interference whatsoever in the internal affairs of those countries."

Mr. Coldwell said the CCF hopes the United Nations police force assembled for the Middle East will be the first step toward creation of a permanent international police force, immediately available to meet world crises.

"It is our conviction," he said, "that the very existence of such an international police body would in itself help to deter any nations who propose to settle international disputes unilaterally through resort to armed force."

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—Egypt has objected strongly to participation by Canada and some other countries in the United Nations Middle East police force.

A spokesman for the Canadian UN delegation said Friday, however, he expects Egypt's objections will be resolved during talks Secretary-General Hammarskjöld is having in Cairo.

"Nonetheless," the spokesman said, "it would be an unhappy start" for the force if the Canadians, the largest single group, should have to move in against Egypt's will.

Canada's 41-man advance party for Egypt took a day off to tour Naples Friday while waiting its turn to board the United Nations airlift.

G'S ACT AS GUIDES

The men, still recovering from a gruelling 48-hour flight from Canada, were given a detailed tour of the southern Italian city by American army guides.

Barrack space is a soldier's dream. The Canadians have been billeted at the huge Baginoli base, eight miles north of Naples, where the entire facilities of NATO and the American forces have been placed at their disposal.

"Since our arrival last Wednesday we have been treated like honored guests," commented Sgt. Eldon Chapman of Port Elgin, N.B. "In 15 years in the army I have never been treated better."

Hammarskjöld met with Nasser in an urgent attempt to define the UN police force's duties in Egypt. As the talks got underway, Britain reported that Egyptian saboteurs struck at Port Said's water supply in an apparent attempt to blockade Anglo-French occupation troops in the uneasy city.

Col. Abdel Kader Hatem, director of the Egyptian information department, charged that an Anglo-French announcement of a plan to clear the Suez Canal would amount to a violation of the UN resolution to preserve peace. He said Britain and France were "creating excuses to carry out acts of aggression in violation of UN charter resolutions."

Hammarskjöld flew into the Suez Canal zone with the contingent of 100 soldiers of the UN international emergency force, marshaled to prevent a new outbreak of war in Egypt.

He hastily inspected the blue-helmeted peace troops, then flew on to Cairo where he plunged into talks with Nasser.

Nasser Assured Of UN Impartiality

LONDON (UP)—United Nations' Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld reportedly told Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser last night that the UN would be completely impartial in its attempts to save the Middle East.

Hammarskjöld met with Nasser in an urgent attempt to define the UN police force's duties in Egypt. As the talks got underway, Britain reported that Egyptian saboteurs struck at Port Said's water supply in an apparent attempt to blockade Anglo-French occupation troops in the uneasy city.

Cracked Bell Splits Village

ST. MAXIRE, France (Reuters)—A battle between church and state has split this sleepy town in Western France into two warring factions—all over a crack in the church bell.

When the bell of St. Maxire cracked six months ago, the cure formally asked the mayor to repair it, for in France the fabric of all churches belongs to the state. The mayor refused.

So the cure collected the money from his parishioners and sent the bell to be recast. Meanwhile, the town councillors relented—too late to repair the cure's wounded feelings.

He decreed that the bell would toll only on sacred occasions and forbade any secular use, including fire warnings. The councillors tried persuasion, attempted litigation and sought negotiation, all to no purpose.

At one point during "peace talks," the bell was spirited away into a loyal parishioner's home.

With the breakdown of talks between the mayor and the cure, passions were at their peak. Plots were hatched in the town hall, in the bars and in the church council.

The cure's partisans struck the first blow. Fearing their leader might accept a compromise, the church council took down the bell after benediction last Sunday night, and wheeled it into the church in a barrow.

They placed it in the sanctuary, under the high altar.

There was an uneasy calm for four days.

Then the mayor, in his official tricolor sash, led eight town councillors and a policeman into the church. They seized the bell, trundled it to the town hall on the

Strike Still On

Magyars Go to Jobs Only to Oust Bosses

VIENNA (Reuters)—Hungarian workers responded Friday to a back-to-work call from their leaders by ousting them in a majority vote, a reliable Budapest source said.

The source said the workers have decided to continue their paralyzing general strike.

The workers' leaders reported ousted were those who talked for eight hours Friday with Janos Kadar, the puppet premier installed by the Russians.

Their back-to-work call was broadcast by Budapest radio, which said many workers would return to their jobs today.

WINNIPEG (CP)—About 70 Hungarian refugees have applied in Vienna for permission to live in Canada. Immigration Minister Pickersgill said Friday night.

First of the refugees — mining engineer Karl Marton and his wife and one or two children — will reach Canada Monday. More than 11,000 such Hungarians fled their revolt-shaken homeland when Russian tanks and troops moved in to crush an independence uprising.

In an interview, Mr. Pickersgill said Canada will admit any Hungarian refugee who can satisfy the immigration department's medical requirements and who is able to work or who will be cared for by Canadians.

Rank and File Praised

U.K. Magazine's Eulogy

'Phenomenal' Simonds Greatest Corps Leader

LONDON (CP)—Basically, Canada is one of the least warlike of all countries. Her "great" military reputation rests not on generals, but on ordinary soldiers.

That is the conclusion of the British magazine, The Economist, which this week turns over most of its book section to a review of two recent military histories published in Canada. They are Official History of the Canadian Army in the Second World War, by army historian Col. C. P. Stacey, and Volume II, the Canadians in Italy, 1943-45, by Lieut.-Col. G. W. L. Nicholson.

The Economist says the two volumes encompass a "great epic." Here are some of its comments on the books, which have already been reviewed in Canada:

1. Though the authors were too discreet to say so explicitly, Canadian generalship was weak.

2. The predominantly Canadian raid on Dieppe, Aug. 19, 1942, has sometimes been regarded as having been executed merely to give the Canadians a little blood-letting. Col. Stacey's "careful, austere" narrative, says The Economist, disposes of such "myths."

3. British officers sometimes felt the Canadian insistence on maintaining the cohesiveness of Canadian units and formations was an exasperat-ing form of nationalism. In fact, says The Economist, the volumes show "how loyally the Canadian high command fell in with the requirements of a grand strategy which they had no real hand in determining."

The magazine concludes: "Canada's great reputation as a warrior nation rests not on its generals, but on the embattled farmers of the South Saskatchewan Regiment on the beach at Fourville, the bankers and insurance clerks of the Black Watch of Montreal in the first-swept uplands below Caen, the market gardeners of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment scaling the rock face at Assoro, or the filling-station mechanics of the British Columbia Dragons dogging their tanks through the nightmare of the Gothic Line."

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

SNOWS will soon be wearing overalls. According to Vance Packard in Collier's Magazine, a revolution in patterns of income has pushed down masses of white-collar workers to relative poverty and has raised "blue-collar" men to wealth.

The class and income structure used to be a pyramid with a mass of unskilled workers at the bottom; narrowing layers of semi-skilled, skilled, white-collar clerical and sales force; above them the semi-professional and lower administrative positions; and big professionals and administrators at the top.

Now the picture has changed. Unskilled laborers are fewer. "Blue-collar" workers—craftsmen, foremen, some operators and service workers—are moving into the middle class and above.

Doctors are the best-paid group in the U.S.A. Some other professionals do well. Bright salesmen and business men can make a fat living. Such people as clerks, bankers and civil servants are the new poor.

The wages cited in the Collier's article are American wages, but Canada may be moving in the same direction.

"A college-trained chemist in Newark, N.J., making $86 a week, told of meeting an unschooled paint-spray inspector making $185 a week. Wanted columns of the New York Times carried side-by-side ads offering $4,500 a year. One was for a porter. The other was for a psychologist with a master's degree in personnel work."

Across the United States, bricklayers average $145 for a 40-hour week.

"A New York firm offered $5,500 for a loan administrator-accountant who could analyze corporate financial standings. . . . A $3-an-hour hod carrier in Newark . . . would have to pass up such an offer. He couldn't afford to make the sacrifice."

We bring you a small drama of the new social order. Dr. Jason Brantport sinks into the luxurious home of Ed Magoon, stands twiddling his hat and glancing enviously at the wall-safe and the liquor cabinet. Magoon enters, a burly man in a mackinaw. He nods curtly, motions the visitor into his private office.

"You'll have to wait while I wash off some of this cement dust," he says. He disappears into an alcove and returns rubbing his hands on a towel. He throws the towel aside. A servant runs in, catches the towel before it hits the floor, and carries it away.

Brantport: "That man who picked up the towel— isn't he the deputy minister of transportation?"

Magoon: "Minister? I dunno. The poor guy was struggling along in some government job when I hired him. Yeah, I think that's what it was, minister's deputy, or something. I don't know much about this government stuff. Let's get down to business. I hear you want to marry my daughter. Is that right?"

Brantport: "Yes, sir."

Magoon: "I don't want to be tough on you, Mac, but I'm particular who my daughter marries. How old are you?"

Brantport: "I'm 35."

Magoon: "Just what do you do for a living?"

Brantport: "I'm the president of a university."

Magoon: "What's a university?"

Brantport: "It's a place of learning."

Magoon: "You mean books, and that? Look, Brantport, I read books sometimes. I'm writing a book now, in my home workshop. It's all right for a hobby. But fooling with books is no kind of work for a grown man. When I was your age, I had already worked my way up to be a builder's helper. Now I'm a hod-carrier. Look around, boy. How long would it take you to buy a joint like this on your pay as a—what did you say your job was, again?"

Brantport: "University president. It would take me some time."

Magoon: "Deborah, you come in here. You go to marry this white-collar trash?"

Deborah: "Yes, dad. We love each other, and we don't care about money."

Magoon: "All right. Here's my offer. If she insists on marrying you, I'll fix it with the foreman so you can move right in, darn near the top bracket. You can start work in my hod-carrier's helper."

Brantport: "No favors. I'll make my own way. I'm turning in my resignation. I was saving this as a surprise, but I'll tell you now. I've landed a job as a plasterer's apprentice."

Magoon: "Why didn't you tell me that before—son? Have a cigar. How about a round of golf tomorrow, after your shift is over? And maybe we can get together in my home workshop some time, and tinker with that book."

Brantport: "Gee, thanks—dad!"

Canadians Rejoice

Relatives Escape Hungary Terror

KITCHENER, Ont. (CPC)—Two Ontario Hungarian families rejoiced yesterday over news from Austria telling of the safety of relatives.

Wander John Nemethi wept happily as he displayed a prized letter from Vienna.

It read in part: "We just ran day and night with no sleep. Mother fell down on the ground many times. I helped her make it."

The letter brought word that Mr. Nemethi's wife, Margaret, and two sons, Tibor, 16, and Janos, 10, had escaped safely from revolt-torn Hungary. Mr. Nemethi has not seen his family in seven years.

Tibor wrote the three-escaped from Czakanydorozslo, Vasmegey province, with only 10 pounds of possessions among them, he said.

"We left right away when the Russian army started to come again. People ran away in panic. The Russians just kill and kill."

Mrs. Nemethi added a note: "I can write only a few words. I can hardly write I am so tired. Thank God for helping me to make it to a safe place."

"Poor dear Hungary is dead. There is blood all over."

The other good news story concerns the Szemeti family of Toronto.

Baker Steve Szemeti flew to Vienna after receiving an SOS from his son, Stephen, who was trapped in Budapest.

Szemeti, unable to gain entry to Hungary, nonetheless succeeded in rescuing his son. Word has now been received that both are safe in Vienna.

Last Harbor Gun Dismantled, Removed

The last of three big harbor defence guns planted on Mary Hill 17 years ago to cover the entrance by sea to this area were carted away yesterday.

Dismantling and removal of the six-pounders, the barrels of which alone weigh six tons each, began more than two weeks ago under Capt. G. L. Younger-Lewis, officer in charge of the Canadian Army maintenance unit at Work Point Barracks.

A navy crane, a hoist of the RCNME at Chilliwack and members of the engineer's squadrons at Esquimalt, plus bulldozers and a low-bed truck, are taking the guns apart and to Esquimalt harbor. From there, an RCN ship will take them to the ordnance depot at Vancouver.

The guns, whose booming through the night in practice firings and during the Second World War, often kept Victorians from sleeping, were installed when members of the 5th B.C. Coast Regiment was mobilized at the outbreak of hostilities in 1939.

Changes of Plea Come Thick, Fast

Changes of plea came thick and fast in city police court yesterday.

Grant Shaver, 29, of 2829 Cedar Hill Road, and Donald William Thomson, 23, of Mount Newton road, on Tuesday had pleaded not guilty to a charge of armed holdup at a bank and elected for trial before a County Court judge.

On the same charge James Proudlove, 19, of 2811 Adelaide, pleaded guilty.

A similar charge against 18-year-old Judy Stothers, Glen Court Hotel, was subsequently dropped.

In police court yesterday, Shaver and Thomson both asked permission to change their pleas to guilty. Shaver said he hadn't understood the instructions clearly on Tuesday, and Thomson said he'd been "confused" at the time.

Magistrate Henry C. Hall accepted their new pleas.

James Proudlove, counsel for Proudlove, asked permission on behalf of his client for a change of plea to not guilty. He said there had been some confusion at the time of the original plea, and Proudlove had made a mistake.

Prosecutor Alan Bigelow opposed this motion, saying some evidence must be placed before the court that Proudlove had not understood the charge.

Magistrate Hall remanded all three to Monday, when he will rule on Proudlove's application.

The four were arrested early Tuesday, shortly after an attempt was made to hold up the night man at Knott and Elford's service station, Fountain Circle. Nothing was taken.

John A. Gillespie, 219 Howe, pleaded guilty to a charge of driving without a valid driver's license, and was fined $25.

In Colwood police court yesterday Mrs. Juliette F. Miller, 1860 Crescent Road, was fined $35 and costs on a charge of careless driving.

Victoria Air Terminal

PROGRESSIVE plans by Trans-Canada Air Lines to step up Mainland flight connections out of Patricia Bay in April next year by substantial additions to its operating fleet and flying schedules are welcome on every ground. Not only has the traffic out of the Victoria air terminal redoubled, but also there is every indication this condition will continue. Serviceable as will be the seven extra flights to Vancouver, the increase in the Seattle schedule from four flights to five will prove as necessary and indeed may not be found enough for the traffic offering on that steadily growing channel.

This brings up the need for urgent attention to more adequate and convenient air terminal facilities at Patricia Bay. Scrupulously clean and well managed, the present terminal buildings used by the public simply are not adequate to the volume of air traffic handled. More space, more accommodation and better public facilities are needed all around. The time has come when its civilian appointments must be brought up to standards commensurate with general practice across the continent. The federal minister of transport was recently at the airport and should have first-hand knowledge of what is required. With the projected step-up in use, the terminal should be brought into keeping.

Greater Victoria has been learning the degree to which air travel will affect its future. There remains little question that this direct link with the flying routes of the continent can only increase in importance as time goes on. In the early days it was justifiable to make-do with a vacant hangar and whatever improvements could be extemporized. Although there have been several attempts to better the terminal buildings, what is needed is a complete re-assessment of the need and action.

The figures alone support the necessity. If in excess of 315,000 people are to be routed through the Victoria air terminal next year, and that is the TCA estimate, something much better will have to be provided for their care and comfort at the touch-down and take-off point in the journey. The travelling public is never loath to pay for its convenience, but it expects that its treatment will be up to modern standards, and today those are high. More planes, more flights and much better ground accommodation—there is the way to success at Patricia Bay.

'Repeaters' Should Pay More

MAGISTRATE HALL'S assent to a request by the city council that fines for over-parking in restricted areas be made the same whether spaces are metered or not removes a long-standing inequality.

It is open to question, however, that the council was wise in asking for the standard penalty to be dropped to the $1 fine imposed in metered spaces instead of raising to the $2.50 formerly applicable to over-parking where there are no meters. To the habitual offender who uses curbside space all day or for hours at a time instead of renting a stall in a parking lot, a dollar fine will still appear as cheap and convenient parking. And it is repeaters—mostly business men—who are a major cause of Victoria's parking problem.

The best way to get at these selfish monopolizers of scarce parking space is through an ascending scale of fines. A $2.50 fine might be rather stiff penalty for a first and unintentional offence but not for a second; and it is judicial practice with crimes and misdemeanors to increase the punishment for succeeding offences. Something else which should not be overlooked is the fact that the chronic over-parker not only is a nuisance but also practices habitual defiance of the law.

If a curbside parker receives an average of five or six tickets a month at $1 each, the fines total only about what it would cost him to rent space; but on a graduated scale illegal parking would be made expensive enough to discourage repetitions. The official objection to this idea is that the traffic department would have to set up a system of records involving extra clerical work. Well, why not? The charge for over-parking is not a rental fee but a legal fine like any other, and should be a matter of record whether or not the defendant appears in court. Anyhow, since all such fines are paid into a single office, maintaining a card record system there for reference when assessing fines would be a very simple routine adding only a moment or so to each transaction.

Nationalism at Melbourne

IN theory Olympic Games are presumed to be above and beyond national politics but that supposition has long worn thin. From the standpoint of pure sport the Olympic ideal has in practice been submerged by neo-professionalism even if this is conveniently camouflaged, and in recent years national prestige has loomed as all-important. Officially victories may be individual, but his country's flag is run up for the victor and unofficial team statistics are taken by the world as the criterion of success. Hence no matter the rarefied abstractions of Olympic officials competing athletes vie for the honor of the nations they represent.

When the Melbourne Olympiad opens next week this spirit will be more in evidence than ever. It is Australia's misfortune that the Games are overshadowed this time by the bitterness of current international events, which already have had their impact among athletes gathering down under. If discord is kept up under wraps national feeling is bound to reflect itself on the track and in the field. It would be no surprise for instance if the Hungarian athletes, on fire because of the treatment accorded their country by Soviet Russia, were patriotically inspired to the endeavors of their lives. One imagines also that if this happened the cheers which would rock the Melbourne stadium would testify to the sympathy which most countries feel for the newest victims of Communist tyranny.

Canadian contestants may not be so closely identified with sombre divisions of politics but they also are ambassadors of their country. When the swimming team left here a few days ago they headed for Australia openly determined to swim for Canada. No one in this country expects its contingent to sweep the board but there is modest hope that the team will nevertheless cover itself with glory. Certainly lack of success will never come for lack of trying and Canada's chances seem better this year than before.

Athletes in themselves are not responsible for present international upheavals, and for the sake of the Melbourne hosts and the intrinsic value of sport one hopes the forthcoming Olympic Games help to offset the rivalry of national spirit as expressed in much less desirable form.

Soviets Lose Balkan Force

By JAY G. HAYDEN
North American Newspaper Alliance

WASHINGTON—One significant effect of recent developments in Poland and Hungary is loss by Russia of some 700,000 satellite soldiers and probable rendering of as many more untrustworthy to the Soviet.

Polish armed forces, estimated at 21 to 25 divisions totalling at least half a million men, assumed a completely nationalistic complexion, incident to installation of the Titoist government headed by Wladyslaw Gomulka. One of the first acts of the new Warsaw regime was removal from its portfolio of former Soviet Field Marshal Rokossovsky. Rokossovsky is presumed to still be the titular Polish commander-in-chief, but he left for Moscow two weeks ago and is still there.

The Hungarian Communist army, estimated at 12 divisions and about 175,000 men, appears to have turned en masse against the Russians and the bulk of it now is said to be either dead, in Russian captivity or hidden among the Hungarian populace.

Besides these Poles and Hungarians, not only lost to the Soviet grand army but largely turned against it, the Russians must be wondering as to the reliability of some 800,000 satellite citizens it has placed under arms in other Communist countries. Even when the East Germans staged their mild uprising in 1953, some groups of German Communist police were reported joining with the rebels. And over the past three weeks the East German army of 150,000 is said to have been "supplemented" by at least 400,000 Russian soldiers, including some of the Kremlin's best panzer divisions.

Bulgaria, with 15 Communist divisions, 150,000 strong, reportedly has been seething with discontent. Not so much has been heard from Rumania, with a native Communist army estimated at 250,000, or Czechoslovakia with 250,000.

At least two Russian divisions were said to be in Rumania at beginning of the Hungarian uprising. There are no known Russian troops in either Czechoslovakia or Bulgaria.

The kingdom of Yugoslavia, never occupied by Russian soldiers and possessed of a standing army estimated at 350,000, plus a half million or more trained reservists.

Tito's regime is fervently Communist, but from 1948 until 1955 it was definitely anti-Russian and it still is far from meriting the title of Soviet satellite.

Currently, Tito is moving cautiously. Belatedly he has come out in favor of the Polish revolutionists who are at the same time Communist and nationalists. He failed completely to declare for the Hungarian rebels, for the reason it is assumed that they went so far as to leave Russia a choice of either forsaking Communism wholly in that country or resisting the revolutionists.

Most remarkably, Communist China has renewed an earlier encouragement of Poland's demand for independence from Moscow's leading strings, although frowning on the Hungarian uprising on the ground that it was "capitalist inspired."

Sealing Days

By FRANK KELLEY

ALL too fast went several hours of a recent evening passed in the company of Max Lohbrunner, who participated in the final years of what was at one time rated Victoria's most lucrative industry—pelagic sealing. Starting in the late 1870s the sealing fleet at its peak numbered some 65 schooners, each employing anywhere from 15 to 25 "signed-on" adventurers. All experienced ups and downs until certain high contracting nations agreed to abandon that particular method of exploiting the North Pacific seal herds and save the fur-bearers from threatened extinction.

In his sealing experiences, Max Lohbrunner ranged far on the little vessels that survived the perils incidental to voyaging months on end over the North Pacific and its little neighbor, Bering Sea—a considerable body of water at that—while Uncle Sam claimed to have jurisdiction over, maintaining it was a "closed sea." This contention, after some years of international feuding, was settled by a treaty whereby Canada and Japan were to share in the annual harvesting of a U.S. company occupying the seal-breeding islands of the Pribilof group.

The narrator covered a lot of sea-leagues in retrospect for my benefit, his range of recollections taking in most waters once familiar to the sealing fraternity between the Gulf of California and the Gulf of Alaska, Bering Sea, as well as the Orient side of the Pacific in the vicinity of the Kurile group and the Copper Islands, adding to his narrative recollections of hunting sea-otter in the Aleutians. He recalls weeks of seal chasing in the Gulf of Alaska, behind which, during fine weather, the majestic summit of Mt. St. Elias above a wreath of clouds was a joy to the sealers and something to be remembered.

The Gulf of Alaska was an area of water patronized by the Victoria sealers and whaling ships hailing from San Francisco. It was noted for its great variety of marine life, the main attraction for seals and whales as well. Visits between sealers and whalers often took place. Victorians on first acquaintance were amazed at living conditions aboard the big ships when introduced to the live-stocks, mostly pigs and goats, maintained for fresh food supplies between decks.

While Max Lohbrunner waxed eloquent in his own way about the pelagic sealing theme, he did not mind recalling what the agreement to cease pelagic sealing was supposed to do. There was to be no more sealing on the high seas; and while Canada, a beneficiary to the extent of 20 per cent from the annual proceeds of seal-skin sales, keeps Canadian interests from outfitting vessels and hunting for seal fur, Japanese sealers (once party to the treaty) are in a fair way to eventually account for the annihilation of the Pribilof seal herds, as well as materially accounting for the extinction of Pacific salmon, which they catch with many fishing vessels and mile-long nets while the salmon are migrating.

Claiming to have positive information, he stated there are several hundred vessels now fishing out of Japanese ports that are ranging Bering Sea and North Pacific waters shooting seals for fur and food and sealing salmon with their great nets as they follow the migrations of fish and fur, not being bound by any agreements, which had been voided following the Pearl Harbor affair. At the same time, another matter stirs the ire of the former sealer. While Canada gets 20 per cent annually from the U.S. for keeping the agreement, Victorians who made those payments possible never got anything.

Reports from Ottawa

AN odd development here during the war-or-peace crisis last week was Prime Minister St. Laurent's disclosure that he had called a cabinet meeting to consider a "communication" he proposed sending Prime Minister Eden.

The oddity wasn't that a meeting was being held for this purpose, but that the PM took the trouble to so inform newsmen.

He did not reveal the contents of the message except to say, two days later, that it had been "friendly and frank." What prompted this belated comment was an unofficial report in London that the message was a blistering one, the strongest ever exchanged between Commonwealth capitals. This in effect the PM denied.

The message now promises to be a cause celebre in the forthcoming special session of Parliament. Already John Diefenbaker, one of the contenders for the Conservative leadership, has said he will demand that the prime minister make it public. The chance that the PM will do so is considered very slight.

St. Laurent could have avoided focusing the Tories' attention on the message merely by refraining from telling reporters that he was sending it. There was certainly enough happening at the time to justify a cabinet meeting, without his reference to the message.

Moreover, it is quite unusual for public notice to be given when the government is preparing a note to be sent to another government. The British high commissioner's office, which received the message for delivery to Eden, was most surprised at St. Laurent's announcement. So one has to look for a reason for this action.

Simple candor might explain it—but that is too simple an explanation when you consider that this was the prime minister talking at a decisive time in world history, and moreover, a prime minister who is not noted for his candor with the press.

Rather, I think it is a fair assumption that the PM wanted the country to know that he was sending a somewhat mysterious message to Eden after weighty consideration by cabinet.

The situation was tense. It was touch-and-go whether Britain would call off its attack on Egypt. It was also apparent that the Canadian government did not support the British action. In these circumstances the PM's disclosure looks like an effort to encourage the inference that Canada was putting pressure on Britain to end the fighting.

This may be an astute political move. Public opinion seems to be heavily weighted against the precipitate British attack on Egypt. This feeling is believed to be especially strong among French-Canadians, among new Canadians of non-British origin, among intellectuals and socialists, and among women whose abhorrence of war that might involve their husbands and sons is reputedly one of the attributes of "momism."

But the PM may also have been trying to smoke out the Tories; to induce them to criticize the government because it refused to support Eden.

If this be bait, the Conservatives are rising to it. Public statements by their would-be leaders have been markedly pro-British. Such words may be sweet music to high Tory ears—but what will they do to Conservative vote appeal among French-Canadians, and among English-speaking Canadians who are still shocked by Britain's action?

The Packsack

OF GREGORY CLARK

AMONG the things that puzzle new Canadians is the absence of game on the Canadian market. In Britain as well as in practically all European countries, a feature of the markets and provision stores is the display at this season of all kinds of wild game—grouse, pheasants, duck, hare, rabbits, as well as venison.

True, it is a luxury item in all countries. But a very considerable percentage of our new Canadians come from a level of their former community that could afford the odd luxury such as game.

The reason, of course, that wild game is available in Britain and Europe is that there are large landowners who raise and protect game on their estates for sport, and who sell the product of their own and their guests' hunting for an income that partly and often largely pays for the staff of gamekeepers they employ. Indeed, on some British and continental estates the income from the wild game they market is a highly important one. The late King Edward VII was extremely miffed, on one occasion, when he was invited to shoot on a lordly estate, to discover that the head gamekeeper, a Scot, had shipped all His Majesty's birds to market instead of to Sandringham.

In Canada no vast estates were parcelled out to the early budding squires of pioneer days, though valiant attempts were made in the early 1800s by certain gentlemen of large ideas to nobble off huge chunks of the public domain as replicas of the sort of lordships that existed in all the old countries. Humdrum characters like you and me put a stop to that. The game belonged to the public domain, and until actually the start of the century market hunters, working industriously at the trade of slaughtering game, rendered the service to the provision business and the markets that the gamekeepers and landowners of the Old Country rendered no less profitably but more economically to their community. But somewhere around the start of this century the public became aware that the market hunters were ruthlessly destroying the wild game, making no effort, as did the landowners of Britain and Europe, to conserve it, crop it, employ it as renewable source of income.

So the lid fell on market hunting. Only sportsmen, in limited seasons and with restricted bags, were permitted to shoot wild game on the public domain. And to put the market hunters right out of business, the law forbade the sale of any game.

Our new Canadians with a taste for game must learn to hunt their own.

Our new Canadians with a taste for game must learn to hunt their own.

Many Problems

Airliners of the Future

WHAT will the next generation of airliners look like?

Ten years ago the megam-sized, gas-turbine-powered British Comet and Viscount were on the stocks, pioneers of the post-war era of air transport. The large Britannia followed while the Vanguard is nearing completion now. In the early 1950s the Americans and British designed and started construction of large trans-ocean pure jet airliners. As is

V-1000, was abandoned—"a decision we shall regret for many years," as George Edwards, the designer, put it. These aircraft will be seen on the world's air routes for the next 10 to 15 years, perhaps longer. What will follow?

The vast increase in international air traffic forecast on all routes, short, medium and long, in the next 10 years presupposes more or larger aircraft. Yet mounting air traffic control problems point urgently to the need of restricting the number of airliners on all routes.

Therefore larger airplanes seem to be the answer, examples of which are already in being. A pre-war 70-seater was considered very large; today, its equivalent holds 130 or more passengers. But if the present trend is followed, landing and take-off speeds and, consequently, runway lengths will go on increasing while safety factors decrease accordingly.

Turboprop proponents say that a relatively high cruising speed can be obtained without an excessive landing run, but the advocates of high-subsonic and supersonic cruising speeds are turning their attention more and more to high-lift devices which will, it is hoped, enable very fast aircraft to operate from runways of a reasonable length—say 2,000 yards.

The problem has received much attention in the United Kingdom. Handley Page are well known for their work on laminar-flow and boundary-layer control, and several other manufacturers are contributing in this field.

Last year, the National Gas-Turbine Establishment announced the jet-flap principle. The jet-efflux from an aircraft's engines is discharged horizontally from the trailing edge of the wing in a long span-wise sheet, instead of from circular orifices directed behind the engines. On take-off and landing this flat jet-sheet is directed downwards at an angle, thus forming in effect an aerodynamic flap of a size which would be impossible with a "solid," or mechanical flap. The effective area is, in fact, similar to that of the wing itself. In addition, a certain amount of direct lift is obtained on the "jet deflection" principle.

The National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics is reported to be "looking into the possibilities" of the British device. The committee estimates that the jet-flap could cut take-off distance from 8,500 feet to 4,500 feet, landing run from 7,000 feet to 3,700 feet, take-off speed from 150 mph to 115 mph and landing speed from 115 mph to 80 mph.

A small NGTE research team has been working on this device, and several points have emerged. The theory of the principle is being developed and wind-tunnel tests of models have done much to confirm its aerodynamic practicability. But quite apart from the principle involved, there are many purely structural problems to be solved.

For example, it seems likely that a jet-flap airliner may have to have as many as six engines, three each side of the fuselage, to ensure stability in the event of engine failure. Obviously, a twin-engine aircraft would quickly be in trouble if one engine failed, because thrust extends almost to the wingtip and the remaining engine would veer the aircraft round and render it uncontrollable in seconds.

Again, an airplane with a low aspect ratio wing—that is, short and fat—would be best suited for jet-flap installation. But this increases "induced" drag and lowers the efficiency of the wing at high speeds.

Wing fuel storage becomes a major problem too. The "hot area" of the wing would be far greater than in a conventional turbojet airplane, thus increasing the risk of fire.

A major aerodynamic problem is concerned with stability. Control difficulties assume large proportions when the wing area of an aircraft is, in effect, suddenly doubled. To make the aircraft manageable at low speeds may demand, for example, a tailplane of very different size and shape from that required for supersonic flying.

This and many other problems indicate that a quick application of an entirely new principle involving both structure and aerodynamics is not possible. Obviously aircraft will have to be "built round" the jet-flap; modifying existing airplanes is not practical. The conventional airliner takes seven to eight years from design inception to airline service; so this time, preceded by the jet-flap development period (perhaps four years), must be reckoned on before the first jet-flap aircraft is in service.

Meanwhile, development work continues with the British aircraft industry taking an active interest. (From The Society of British Aircraft Constructors)

Running Away Won't Help

What is all the fuss and furor and plans for evacuation — rushing up to Courtenay or down the road to Sooke? Run here, run there, scramble, rush, evacuate; kill off all your pets, etc.

Aren't we going off "the deep end" rather? Are we going to run away the first time an enemy plane crosses the DEW line? — for after that it would be only a matter of minutes; and who can tell where the planes are headed for? Victoria, Vancouver, Seattle, Tacoma, Portland, San Francisco. At their present fantastic speeds, modern jets would reach any one of these places in a very short time.

Are we to rush off up the Island at the first threat? What about false alarms? Do we shoot our pets before we leave, or when we get there? And where do we get the arms and ammunition?

It would seem that someone is being very unrealistic about this whole question. Suppose we get halfway up to Courtenay and the enemy drops a bomb on Nanaimo — just as likely, I dare say, as on Victoria. Or why not on Comox, just as we arrive at Courtenay? Again, what if our internal enemies see to it that our gasoline supply is sabotaged? Not at all impossible — they have done much worse in other countries. A communist anywhere is an enemy, and ought to be treated as such.

We cannot run away from this danger. A great deal of its cause is that we have been running away from the truth, and not facing up to what we might easily have seen coming long ago. We have been appeasing the evil forces, both at home and abroad. The issue is chiefly a moral one. In our religion we have appeased, instead of facing up to the truth; and we have allowed the "love of money" to dominate us and our lives.

A Wolf on the Fold

"The Assyrian came down like a wolf on the fold..." What happens when a wolf raids a flock of sheep? He runs amok, tearing the innocent helpless creatures to pieces and leaving their mangled, bleeding corpses in the field. This, in a way, is what Russia has done to the peace-loving, helpless Hungarians, while we civilized nations sit by doing nothing.

'Culture' and Want

May I have a small space to express my surprise and disgust. Yesterday morning (Nov. 11) I sat down at my radio to listen to Remembrance Day services, dialed Victoria and felt sure I was in for a great pleasure. But I was not; for all I could get in Victoria was the usual advertising program of a car agency. How selfish can we be! — a firm of that importance and the radio station taking no note of such a day. Shame! Shame!

The new Victoria TV station would make themselves very popular if they would plan their Sunday programs to have no advertising at all, and others only half of what they have. I don't see how any firm can afford all this advertising.

But I suppose this is in keeping with times. Our old-age pensioners and army pensioners not getting enough to keep body and soul together and Ottawa planning to spend $100,000,000 for culture. Our churches putting millions of dollars into buildings instead of for helping these pensioners; also sending thousands of dollars yearly to foreign missions while our own people starve. Charity — there is none; it is just a race for the largest and best building.

Undermining Loyalty

With regard to Mrs. Teresa Mann's letter, I have written to the prime minister as follows:

"Enclosed herewith letter which appeared in Victoria Colonist of Nov. 15, 1956. I, too, have been listening for years to this man Lauradeau over CBC and my reaction on many occasions has been very much as Mrs. Mann states.

"I am drawing this matter to your attention as myself and many others feel that the use of a Canadian government radio station could be put to better use than to endeavor to confuse and undermine the loyalty of our people."

Wisdom vs. Greed

Congratulations to you on your editorial "The Handicap of High Wages" in today's (Nov. 15) Colonist. I hope the people most concerned, which means nearly everyone, read, mark, learn and inwardly digest it. May wisdom supplant greed.

Sneering Sarcasms

I listened, with indignation too great to be expressed in polite language, to the CBC news roundup on Sunday, Nov. 11, in which Mr. Henri Laurendeau of the newspaper Le Devoir commented on recent events in the Middle East.

Mr. Laurendeau is, of course, entitled to his opinions, but I submit that when these are addressed over a public medium, they should be addressed in a responsible manner.

The whole tenor of Mr. Laurendeau's remarks — the distortion of facts to suit his own thesis; the ignoring of relevant factors which go far to explain the action of the governments of Great Britain and France — coupled with the cheap, sneering sarcasms he saw fit to employ in his broadcast, constituted a studied and gratuitous insult to the thousands of Canadians, both French and English, who hold opposite opinions.

It is a sad commentary on our government-controlled CBC when they allow their national network to be used in this manner.

Kindly Thought

As guests at the Plaza Theatre Nov. 13 (the Old Age Pensioners' Organization, Branch 5) a large number of members fully appreciated the kindness of Mr. Steve Allen, manager. Much more happiness could be brought into the lives of the aged by kindly thought. A seat here and there means little, but so much happiness for those who cannot afford entertainment in these days.

All Talk and No Do

As a citizen who has always been interested in all governmental matters and particularly civic, may I say that Ald. Smith is certainly right when he is digging into the business licences paid in this city by business men.

I had a hand many years ago as an alderman on a city council, and I was not liked for it. One of my moves was a charge on floor space, and on the additional articles carried by the stores. I could not see why any smaller store should pay the same business licence as the big chain.

I, for a good many years, have been against business men on city councils, because there is a great tendency for them to look after their own and other business people's affairs, such as licences. The Trades and Labor Council has the privilege to look into all matters and can inspect all books, as well as every ratepayer in this city, and they are backward when they don't. Why all talk and no do?

What we need in Victoria is a ratepayers' and citizens' league — and how!

Special Exemption

In a recent letter published in your paper, M. L. Vining was pointing out the inequalities between rooming houses, etc., and trade licence paid by the Empress Hotel. I think this letter should be corrected as according to my understanding the Empress Hotel pays no trade licence fees, as the Empress Hotel is exempt by Clause 1 of the agreement, between the Victoria City and the owners of the Empress Hotel, namely the Canadian Pacific Railway.

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister St. Laurent said Friday night the aircraft carrier Magnificent will sail with Canadian troops for the Middle East Sunday afternoon if the cabinet gets the green light from the United Nations.

Permanent Force Only Solution Says Lord Dundee

A strong, permanent United Nations police force is the only possible solution to the Middle East crisis, said former British under-secretary of state, the Earl of Dundee, in an interview here yesterday.

B.C. Labor Platform Formulated

By Colonist Staff Reporter
VANCOUVER — A resolution calling for public ownership of all public utilities, including the B.C. Power Corporation, was the only contentious resolution among more than 10 passed by the representatives of 100,000 B.C. trade unionists yesterday.

Pass the resolution, William Lowe, international representative of the Office Employees' Union, warned delegates at the first convention of the new B.C. Federation of Labor, and you take away the bargaining rights and right to strike of more than 6,000 unionized employees of B.C. utilities.

Ed O'Connor, general secretary of the B.C. Government Employees' Association, made an amendment that the "natural and civil rights of public employees are assured by appropriate legislation."

The amendment and resolution passed.

A resolution presenting the "platform of labor legislation for British Columbia" and formulated by the B.C. Unity Committee, passed with no debate.

It called for the attainment of the 30-hour work week, with the immediate objective of 40-hour week legislation; a minimum wage of $1.25 an hour; an improved Equal Pay Act; pay for all proclaimed holidays; the granting of equal rights to government employees under existing labor legislation; and a re-drafted Labor Relations Act.

External Affairs Minister Pearson in New York said only that the Magnificent will sail at 4 p.m., EST, Sunday.

A navy spokesman said the Magnificent will be ready for sailing by 2 p.m., EST, Sunday. But she would not sail until the cabinet commits the troops.

Mr. St. Laurent told reporters as he emerged from a meeting with his ministers that he had been in telephone touch with Mr. Pearson and with the UN Middle East police force commander, Maj.-Gen. E. L. M. Burns of Ottawa.

Mr. St. Laurent said there could be no date set for calling a special session of Parliament to approve the funds for Canada's contribution to the UN force until the cabinet signed the order committing the troops.

HALIFAX (CP) — Army vehicles were hoisted by cranes to the big flat deck of the aircraft carrier Magnificent Friday as the job of preparing her for troopship duty neared completion.

The 950 soldiers making the trip went through last-minute formalities Friday. Some stowed personal equipment aboard ship.

Asked whether Egypt is objecting to the uniforms worn by Canadian soldiers on grounds they look like those of the British, Mr. St. Laurent replied merely that the uniforms were standard.

From this sheaf of secret orders, one impression emerges clearly: Cairo was frankly concerned with the deficiencies in her Sinai armies and feared that a failure to correct these would cost the Egyptians heavily. Events were to prove those fears well founded.

Message from the Minister

Let God Judge 'Hypocrites'

REV. C. H. MCLEAN

By REV. C. H. MCLEAN
Chaplain of Royal Roads College

One thing which seems to rankle people who are not church-going folk is the fact, as they put it, that there are so many hypocrites in the church. Why hasn't the church the courage to do ask.

Jesus told a parable once which gives, I think, the answer. The parable is found in the Gospel according to Matthew 13:24-30—There was a farmer who sowed his field with the finest wheat he could possibly obtain, and satisfied that he would have a good crop, he waited eagerly for the harvest.

When the crop began to come up the farmer went to inspect it. Imagine his disappointment to discover tares or darnel all through his wheat. Darnel is false wheat which looks very much like the real thing, and at first only an expert could tell the difference. So, what was the farmer to do?

Well, "said his servants, 'that we go in among the wheat and gather up the darnel!'" "No," said the householder, "lest while you gather up the tares you root up the wheat with them. Let both grow together until the harvest; and in time of the harvest I will say to the reapers, Gather ye together the tares into bundles to burn them; but gather the wheat into my barns."

Of course the Church of Jesus Christ is met with a similar problem today and in every age. There are those in the church who "seem" to be good wheat and those who seem to be bad wheat.

Suppose, on Sunday as a Christian minister I should say to someone in church who seemed to be false. "Be gone! You are a disgrace; you have no right here."

Thus we would be rid of this man in the church. But, perhaps beside this man there sat his son, a good boy in every respect. He loves his father. He says to himself, I know my father better than you do. He has faults but he has good points too. If he goes, I go too.

So like the man in the parable, in rooting up the darnel, I have rooted the wheat also. Would it not be wiser to let both grow until the harvest?

At the harvest, God, the just reaper, will separate the good from the bad and he will do it far better than we can.

Steel Stocks Make Gains At New York

NEW YORK (UP) — Individual issues and groups started in an irregular, quiet stock market.

as the top performer. It rose to a new high at 147, up 11 on the day and 33 points on the week. Other steels moved up sharply for a time and then fell from their highs, holding part of the rise.

Coal stocks and sugars were strong. Special issues to rise 2 points or more included Babcock & Wilcox, and Outboard Marine. Many stocks registered new highs before profit-taking reduced prices in many sections of the market.

Autos were steady to firm most of the day with Chrysler the best performer.

Triad Leads Oils
TORONTO (CP) — The stock market Friday quietly eased back to a third straight decline.

Industrial stocks ranged to three points, led by Goodyear, Tire, Canada Malt, and General.

Financials ranged to two points, led by Bank of Montreal and Bank of Commerce.

Grains were confined to a point in most cases, Aluminum, Ford, and General Motors.

Utilities were among the better performers.

Noranda, down 1 1/2 points, and Hudson Bay, down 1 point, were the main influences on the base.

Metals — Other seniors declined fractionally, but United Kennel gained 4 cents.

Junior bare metal issues ranged to 23 cents with Mogul Mining the heaviest loser, Eastern Mining and East Sullivan dipped 20 cents. Gains were confined to 10 cents or less.

Triad was a feature among the western oils, adding 40 cents in low, Devon-Palmer, Del Rio, Canadian Pipeline and Canada Southern. Petroleum gained 15-20 cents.

North Canadian and Consolidated West Petroleum lost 20 cents.

Pipeline Gains
MONTREAL (CP) — Industrials closed irregularly lower Friday on the Montreal and Canadian stock exchanges. The price movements ranged to a point.

Base metals were mixed with Aluminum up 1/2 and Noranda off 1/2, trading ex-dividend. Imperial Oil dropped 1 1/2 to lead refining oils lower while Trans Mountain jumped three points in the pipe lines.

Abitibi, Fraser and Howard Smith dipped 1/2 in the papers.

Steels were also mixed with Steelco up a point and Atlas down 1/2. Commerce added 1/2 in a steady bank section while utilities and beverages were mixed in a 1/2-point range.

Construction lost 1 1/2 points. Miscellaneous issues General Dynamics dropped 1 1/2 and Dominion Glass retreated a point. Argus and Canadian Vickers were both off 1/2.

The mines were lower. Most changes were small but Little Long Lake dropped 84 cents with 16,000 shares traded. Losses in a five cent range were chalked up by Canbaco, Cleveland Copper, Obalski and Quebec Smelting.

London Prices Firm
LONDON (Reuters) — Shares on the London stock market were generally higher, reflecting increased market optimism for a settlement of the Middle East situation.

Oil shares advanced but the best levels were not held, although British Petroleum and Bupal were about two shillings higher.

British funds continued to rise, 100 fractionally. Nearly all sections of the industrial market showed gains, with Bowers, British Aluminium and Rolls-Royce among the more favored issues.

Shipping, shares were higher. Kaffirs and coppers were better in quiet trading.

London (AP) — Stock markets, however, were not as active as in the past. The market was fairly active at recent lower levels, and there was activity in Spud Valley at 1 1/2 cents.

Industrials did little although Western Plywood was traded sharply lower at 17 1/2.

Short Terms Stronger
MONTREAL (CP) — Short-term government issues took on a firmer tone, bids were slightly easier and longs remained unchanged in quiet trading on Montreal bond markets. Provincials and corporates remained generally quiet and unchanged, although a mixed tendency appeared in convertible issues.

WINNIPEG (CP) — Some easing in moderately active trade showed on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange. But fair commercial demand despite liberal offerings checked big declines.

Parcel lots of flax went to the continent and two cargoes of rye were reported sold to West Germany. Oats and barley had routine support.

Rye uncovered biggest activity with selling from U.S. interest and commission houses and demand of a mixed nature.

Overnight export loadings of Canadian wheat included: Republic of Ireland, 238,000 bushels; Israel, 374,000; Japan, 385,000; and the United Kingdom, 884,000.

Lakehead prices for Class Two, IWA and domestic wheat were unchanged from Thursday.

CRANE FOR EXPORTERS
Vancouver Island business men who export goods to the U.S.A. will have a chance of talking over their problems with the head of the U.S. customs appraisers when he visits Victoria next Saturday.

He is E. J. Cannon, of Buffalo, New York, who has been making a tour of Canada to learn at first hand the difficulties besetting Canadian exporters into the United States.

Hosting Mr. Cannon during his Vancouver Island visit is Albert Reed, local secretary of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association.

Mr. Reed says that while the exports of raw and basic materials into the United States are not now causing much problem, the same does not exist in connection with many manufactured articles.

ONTARIO OFFERS BONDS
The province of Ontario is issuing $50,000,000 of 4 1/2 per cent debentures in two maturities.

The short terms due Dec. 1, 1963, are being offered at $95.82 to yield 4.70 per cent, and the long terms due 1976 are being offered at $97 to yield 4.73 per cent.

OIL SALES BOOM
Canadian Oil Companies sales are running about 15 per cent higher than a year ago according to W. H. Res, president, in a quarterly letter to shareholders.

Crude oil processed at Sarnia is running at 30,000 barrels a day, and will probably be up 23 per cent on last year.

Western Canada exploration and development has increased through this year's work by 4,200,000 barrels. Six oil discoveries were made out of 20 exploratory wells and 13 development wells were successfully completed.

Share Exchange Pending Oil Firm Merger Likely

By HARRY YOUNG
Colonist Business Editor

McColl-Frontenac Oil Co. is to make a share exchange offer to shareholders of Regent Refining (Canada) Ltd.

The proposed offering is six shares of McColl-Frontenac for 19 shares of Regent Refining. The amalgamation of these two companies has been in the air for some time.

McColl-Frontenac is a subsidiary of Texas Oil, and Regent Refining Canada Ltd. is an offshoot of Trinidad Oil Company which was recently sold by Britain to Texas.

McColl-Frontenac and Regent are therefore already in the same stable, and the market has expected a merging of the two Canadian interests ever since it purchased Trinidad Oil.

IMPERIAL BANK BOOST
An increase of nine per cent in its total assets in the year ended Oct. 31 is announced by the Imperial Bank of Canada.

The annual report shows assets at $367,404,360, against $335,705,421 a year ago. Deposit liabilities have increased by 7.9 per cent to $294,853,853.

While the bank, in accordance with Bank of Canada wishes, has cut down its investment and call loans by $54,169,829, current loans were up $83,141,230, while mortgage loans increased by $18,369,799.

The increase in current loans is said by the Imperial Bank to reflect its share of increased business activity in Canada.

Imperial Bank's figures consolidate those of Barclay's Bank of Canada which was absorbed on Feb. 1, 1956.

The net profit for the year was $2,676,378, an increase of $192,882 from the previous year. The earnings per share were $2.39 against $2.18 a year ago when the capitalization was lower.

Stops Threat but Gets Penalty

Victoria defenceman Bill Davidson effectively kept New Westminster's Arnie Schmutz off the puck in first-period action around the Cougar goal but he was given an interference penalty on the play by referee Scotty Morrison.

IT BEATS ME

By Jim Tang

A HEAVY GROWTH: It escaped this notice previously so it came as quite a shock to "discover" that the Western Hockey League schedule for Boxing Day lists five games for the eight clubs.

It was more of a shock when a check disclosed that this was no misprint. Vancouver Canucks and Victoria Cougars will play at Memorial Arena at 2 p.m. and then, it is hoped, fly together to Vancouver for a game there at 8:30 p.m.

Reason, it is said, for this (and please excuse the expression) hush-league scheduling is that Canucks wanted a home game on the holiday. It was then decided to take a chance on flying weather and the tolerance of Vancouver hockey fans. That they will be so full of the spirit of Christmas, or holiday spirits, that they won't mind being asked to watch two clubs struggle through a second game four hours and an air lift after the first one ended is problematical.

It's a bit difficult to understand how anyone could think this type of scheduling could possibly help.

First of all, it stamps a league as being really minor. Then, possibly the worst thing that could happen would be the hoped-for result of a full house at Vancouver. It's hardly likely that clubs with hardly time enough to eat and shower between games will put on a display of hockey that would encourage fans to come back.

And even if they did, what of following effects? Both clubs are scheduled for games on Dec. 21 and 22, both play on Dec. 28 and 29 and Jan. 1 and Canucks also play on Jan. 2. Then, 4 has both clubs in action again. Without leaving their own division, Canucks play seven games in 10 days and the Cougars six in 10 days. The WHL is trying to provide more interesting and action-packed hockey but someone, it seems, has forgotten that this needs more thoughtful scheduling than that holiday mess.

A FINE GESTURE: About the only thing certain about today's Grey Cup semi-finals is that the big majority of neutral football fans in Western Canada are hoping that Saskatchewan Roughriders will unseat the Edmonton Eskimos in the deciding game of the WIFU final.

Riders haven't the glamor of the Eskimos or Montreal Alouettes, or even the Winnipeg Blue Bombers. They have slowly and painstakingly built up a solid team under the fine coaching of Frankie Filchuck without the financial resources of other WIFU rivals. Team spirit and good coaching have made "name" players where other clubs have been buying them. The kind of team spirit the Saskatchewan club has was shown a couple of weeks ago when the club gave the players a bonus for making the playoffs. No sooner was this announced than the import players on the club got together and decided not to accept their share of the bonus. They requested that if he put into the pool and divided among the Canadian players.

IT TAKES TIME: Vancouver football fans who have been so impatient because B.C. Lions couldn't build a Grey Cup contender in two seasons should take a good look at the Roughriders. They have been four years building the club which has done so well this season — and it must be remembered they didn't start from scratch as the Lions did in 1954. Fourteen of the Riders have been with the club since the start of the 1953 season and seven others since the start of the 1954 season. The club has added only seven regulars in the past two seasons.

Linemen John Wozniak and Martin Ruby and fullback Bobby Marlow are the only 1953 imports to stick. They were joined in 1954 by Frank Tripucka, Ken Carpenter, Larry Isbell, Stan Williams and Mario Demarco. Those eight imports have had three seasons together and were welded into a fine unit with the Canadians who have contributed so much to the Saskatchewan cause. Whitehouse, Archeson, Sutcliffe, Clarke, Lampman, Anderson, Glaser, Todd, Willis, Martin and Hamilton started in 1953, were joined by Adams and Synyak the next season.

Riders came on gradually. They were eliminated in the semi-finals by Winnipeg in both 1954 and 1955. Fans were loyal, but restive because so many of them felt that Tripucka was by no means the answer for an expensive replacement or because they couldn't afford an expensive replacement or because Filchuck had faith. Tripucka stayed on. Today he ranks next to Jackie Parker, who is only the best there is anywhere in Canada, at his position. Isbell was another player who developed slowly until he became one of the most valuable operatives in the WIFU — the best kicker, one of the best pass-catchers and a sound defensive player.

This season, the Riders were in a position at last to make their bid. The Lions will make theirs only after they accept the fact that it will take time, and build accordingly.

Cinch to Break . . .

O'Brien's Future in Doubt But Olympic Medal Certain

By OSCAR FRALEY
MELBOURNE (CP) — Lieut. Parry O'Brien of the U.S. Air Force is fairly certain what he'll be doing the next three months but after that his plans are up in the sky like the shot put he heaves regularly to astounding world records.

Current developments are certain. First he'll sleep the next few weeks in the middle of a littered equipment room, because only there can he find privacy from the disturbing snoring of his Olympic teammates.

Next he'll set a new Olympic record in the international games, breaking his own 1953 mark of 57 feet, one and one-half inches. This is a cinch, because only two other men have shaded 60 feet in the shot put while Parry has bettered 62 feet a total of eight times — and tossed it a fantastic 63 feet, two inches.

After that he'll make a tour of the Far East for the state department and then he'll go home to get discharged from the air force.

What happens then is anybody's guess, said the blue-eyed giant who stands six-feet-three and weighs 230 pounds.

"I might go sailing," he said, discarding the night mask he wears to keep light out of his eyes while sleeping. "Or maybe public relations."

But there are those who think the former University of Southern California athlete might go into professional football.

He was a freshman halfback at Southern California before turning to track and only recently ran the 100-yard dash in 9.7. Two professional teams have been after him with the idea of making him into a line-busting fullback.

"Several veteran professional football players have advised me not to compete in that game," the 24-year-old blond explained. "I guess they feel I might be able to capitalize better in business on my shot-putting reputation."

O'Brien has been criticized frequently for his gruff and often close to churlish manners just before he competes in an event.

"Well, I can't kick too much about what they say," he grinned. "I know it's true and I feel terrible about hurting people's feelings but I just can't help it. I get edgy and feel myself withdrawing from everybody. But the mental approach is important, too. I just try to be nicer to everybody the rest of the time."

Yet, once he gets started tossing that iron ball, O'Brien's worries fade away.

O'Brien is rated among the "sure winners" in the approaching Olympics and is expected to pace an American sweep of the shot put. His 63-foot heave was equivalent among weight men to a 3.4 mile or a 17-foot pole vault. Something, in other words, which simply couldn't be done.

"But you never know what will happen," he cautioned, leaving the certainty to the rest of the track world.

Dorohoy Leads Royals to 4-2 Victory; Cougars Try Hard But Mistakes Hurt

Amerks, Canucks Lose on Prairies

Seattle Americans and Vancouver Canucks are finding out, just as Victoria Cougars and New Westminster Royals found out earlier, that it's tough to pick up points in the Prairie section of the Western Hockey League.

Both clubs lost their second game in three starts last night. Americans were surprised, 3-1, at Winnipeg while Canucks never got over a bad first period at Edmonton as the Flyers won, 5-2.

Results dropped Canucks to third place in the Western Division, cut Americans' lead to five points, boosted Flyers within two points of Brandon Regals in the Eastern Division, and moved Warriors three points ahead of the trailing Calgary Stampede.

Warriors checked Seattle's ace line of Guyle Fielder, Ray Kinasevich and Val Fonteyne to a standstill, then took advantage of penalties to break a 1-1 tie in the third period.

Kinasevich got an assist on the Seattle goal by Fred Creighton but the high-scoring trio was held goalless for the second time this season.

Winnipeg defenceman Fred Shero and Danny Summers scored in the third period on power plays. Shero got the tie-breaking goal when Seattle played shorthanded because of a penalty for having too many men on the ice. Summers got the clincher with Kinasevich off.

Warriors had to use Gerry McNamara in goal because

Royals Move Up; Ollie Gets Three

By JIM TANG

It's 34 games to the end of the Western Hockey League schedule for Victoria Cougars but their situation is getting grimmer by the game. They are six points out of third place in the Western Division after 16 games and showing no signs that they may be able to better themselves.

It was the same story at Memorial Arena last night as the Cougars took the short end of a 4-2 score, in a "must" game against New Westminster.

Three of the New Westminster goals were scored from plays which started inside the Victoria blue line. Each put a temporary damper on what looked like promising rallies and each was caused by the kind of lapses which have been hurting so much and which are always costly against a veteran team such as the Royals.

Ollie Dorohoy and Max McNab, a couple of old vets who know how to be in the right spot at the right time, combined for Dorohoy's second and third goals while bustling Blinky Boyce hustled in to cash a blunder.

Dorohoy's 24 goal, late in the first period, came after Cougars had just missed tying during a penalty to Ron Matthews. McNab got possession in the Victoria zone, sidestepped weary checkers until he found Dorohoy in position for a pass.

Royals, The Cougars could have won, probably should have won, but they didn't do much with their chances while Royals again made the Cougar mistakes hurt by turning four of them into goals.

As usual, the Cougars tried hard but they had the initiative only in spurts. Their lack of ability to sustain an attack and the poor positional play which led to Boyce's goal.

Trying to make a play instead of shooting the puck out and taking a chance on an icing call, the Cougars got mixed up and Boyce whacked a screened shot just inside the far post.

Two minutes later, the Cougars were three goals in arrears. Rob Beckett lost the puck trying to come out of his own zone on the left boards, it was sifted over to Dorohoy, who connected with a quick shot.

Royals played it cozy from there, but they had to have a bit of luck here and there to keep Cougars from getting close.

Cougars got their second goal with an all-out attack during a penalty to Jim Hay and had six minutes to get the two goals needed to tie.

Kilburn went back on his line with Doug Anderson and Doug Macauley for the final drive and it might have been a different story if he had managed to tip in a pass from Macauley at 15:45. Instead, it went inches by an open corner and close, the Royals played a spelling, stalling game to run out time.

FIRST PERIOD: 1. New Westminster, Dorohoy (Kilburn), 15:45. 2. New Westminster, Dorohoy (McNab), 17:15. Penalties: Davidson 11:04, Matthews 14:45, Fashoway 18:13, Carmichael 18:13.

SECOND PERIOD: 3. Victoria, Kilburn (Heinrich, Brown), 3:15. 4. New Westminster, Boyce (Loftholm), 4:15. 5. New Westminster, Dorohoy (Schmaltz, McNab), 4:20. Penalty: Davidson 2:30.

THIRD PERIOD: 6. Victoria, Kilburn (Davidson, Macauley), 14:01. Penalties: Pelletier (served by Rankin) 1:06, Hay 12:04.

Kilburn Scores Twice

After Colin Kilburn had scored the first of his two goals early in the second period while Bill Davidson was sitting out a penalty, Davidson's return to action caused a mix-up which led to Boyce's goal.

Trying to make a play instead of shooting the puck out and taking a chance on an icing call, the Cougars got mixed up and Boyce whacked a screened shot just inside the far post.

Two minutes later, the Cougars were three goals in arrears. Rob Beckett lost the puck trying to come out of his own zone on the left boards, it was sifted over to Dorohoy, who connected with a quick shot.

Brundage Raps Withdrawal Of Nations from Olympics

Avon Brundage, assistant president of the International Olympic Committee, arrived in Melbourne Friday night with praise for Olympic preparations and a sharp blast at countries which pulled out of the controversial 1936 games.

He said that the withdrawal of several nations from the 1936 Olympic Games was a "disgrace" and that the International Olympic Committee should have taken action to prevent it.

How to get more living space

THE EASY WAY

by Cam Forrest
PV do-it-yourself advisor

"In the old days, families often lived in cramped quarters while valuable space lay wasting in basement or attic. Today, thanks largely to new and cleverly designed building materials, the average home-owner can convert this space into extra rooms for sleeping, recreation or fun—and get solid satisfaction in doing it. This is especially so with PV Hardboards. These strong, damage-resistant all-wood panels come in a variety of forms that take the worry and back-ache out of building walls and ceilings. Two of these are shown below."

"Here's your ceiling"

... and it's a beauty. These 4' x 4' panels of PV Square tiles are grooved in squares to form a smart grid pattern. Light in weight for easy overhead handling, each panel butts against the next concealing the joint and forming a handsome ceiling design. The perfect do-it-yourself ceiling medium!

"Here are your walls"

... they go up in a hurry with PV Plank Board. Precision-cut vertical grooves add a distinctive plank-like pattern to a surface that takes paint beautifully. Comes in 4' x 8' panels, 1/2" thick for application right over the studs. Most of the nails are concealed in the grooves!

Keep City Victorian

Truck Dumps

Traffic was blocked briefly on West Saanich Road at 4:00 p.m. yesterday when this truck, loaded with 4,000 feet of lumber, rolled over onto its side. Driver, Sgt. Singh of Indian, attempted to negotiate a sharp turn on the turn-off to the right. Lumber was dumped in the truck and the driver was taken to hospital for a broken leg, a broken arm and a broken back.

This city is a treasure house of old Victorian architecture and a committee with a plan to protect it was set up to keep it that way. A Chamber of Commerce official proposed yesterday.

A committee of the Chamber of Commerce is studying the possibility of having a city of Victorian architecture and a committee with a plan to protect it was set up to keep it that way.

Mr. J. H. Smith, president of the Chamber of Commerce, said that the committee is studying the possibility of having a city of Victorian architecture and a committee with a plan to protect it was set up to keep it that way.

His travels and a study of tourists seek attractions in this order historical, religious, scenic and beauty.

Mr. J. H. Smith, president of the Chamber of Commerce, said that the committee is studying the possibility of having a city of Victorian architecture and a committee with a plan to protect it was set up to keep it that way.

It would be a pity to lose one of a smaller community in New Victoria, he said, which is the thing that is important.

BOOKLET AVAILABLE

This booklet, available from the Chamber of Commerce, contains a list of the many fine old Victorian houses in the city. It also contains a list of the many fine old Victorian houses in the city.

We are a unique survival of old Victorianism," he said. "We have wonderful examples like the Helmsley House, Craigdarroch Castle, Hatley Park at Royal Roads, Pomeroy Square and many others, surrounding Rockland Avenue with the oak trees growing in the middle of the road."

Sailors Shocked

VANCOUVER (CP) — Seamen were once noted for their fluency with profane language but times have changed.

In the Canadian Sailor official organ of the Seafarers' International Union, the following item appears:

"At a meeting aboard the motor vessel Constal Creek, crew members passed unanimously a motion to have the two female cooks stop using profane language in front of the crew members—especially when there is no justification for it."

Ratepayer Head Quits To Avoid 'Embarrassing'

Mr. J. H. Smith, president of the Chamber of Commerce, said that the committee is studying the possibility of having a city of Victorian architecture and a committee with a plan to protect it was set up to keep it that way.

Revulsion for Russia Reflected in Fashion

By BERNARD KAPLAN
PARIS (NANA) — Paris couturiers are hard at work eliminating the "Cossack Look" from their spring collections. The new styles will bear no hint of Russian inspirations which dominated the autumn presentations.

French premier Paul Reynaud told this reporter, "This will have no need of them, for they will never again be asked to visit non-Communist countries in Europe or I believe Asia. These days are hard and extremely clever work unless less than 24 hours."

The reaction of free Europeans to what has happened in Hungary has never been equalled in my experience. Stalin's nonaggression pact with Hitler caused a soul-searching among some Communists and soured most of their political sympathizers. But Hungary has affected everyone.

The Soviet leaders certainly knew they were risking the loss of world opinion by what they did but I do not think they realized how overwhelming and bitter the reaction would be. I doubt anyone could have foretold that.

Only a couple of weeks ago, Western Europe's cultural honeymoon with Russia, which began even before the Geneva "Summit" conference, was at its height. Now, Russia again has been "read out" of Europe morally and culturally.

TRIP CANCELLED
At least five French good will missions scheduled to fly to Moscow within the next month, including a parliamentary group, have been cancelled. The British Ballet, stated its visit here as a follow-up to its recent success in London, has been told by French authorities not to bother.

The British Sadler's Wells Ballet has cancelled its trip to Moscow. Offshoots of the Cannes and Venice Film Festivals are expected to bar Russia from participation next year. Concert managers throughout Western Europe are dropping all plans.

Korea Subject OF WMS Talk
Fairfield United Church WMS heard a talk on Korea given by Mrs. W. G. H. Firth at their recent meeting. Mrs. Firth told of the country's history, and of the work missionaries are doing to help the people.

Recently the WMS held a shower of sewing materials for Korea and gifts were accepted by Mrs. E. R. Bewell, president of Victoria Presbyterian WMS.

Mrs. Ernest MacGinnis presided at the meeting and the devotional was given by Mrs. B. Wellwood, assisted by Mrs. T. A. McEwan, Mrs. J. Aitken and Mrs. B. C. Bracewell.

WI President Opens Bazaar
Mrs. B. McEwen opened a successful bazaar and tea sponsored by Victoria Women's Institute, at which a sum of $122 was realized. Mrs. W. F. Bridge, Mrs. H. W. Berta and Mrs. E. E. Farnthorpe and Miss M. Bruce were in charge of afternoon tea.

Others assisting at stalls of needlework, knitting, aprons and novelties were Mrs. N. Brown, Mrs. S. S. Macra, Mrs. T. Sadler, Mrs. A. Richards and Mrs. J. Tyler. Mrs. E. Anderson and Mrs. R. McEwan were in charge of home cooking and tea.

Sour Cream Often Used In Hungarian Recipes

Do you remember the other day we were talking about the importance of avoiding monotony in meal planning? Well, a new found friend and neighbor of mine is Hungarian. At though she and her husband have lived in Canada for many years she still cooks in the Hungarian way. Naturally they are in salted water, then drain and from oven but leave on for about 10 minutes. Turn off the heat and let the dumplings stand for 5 minutes. Drain and serve with sour cream. (Hungarian recipe.)

TRICK OF THE DAY
To make a delicious sour cream dressing, mix 1/2 cup sour cream with 1/2 cup mayonnaise and 1/2 cup ketchup. Add a pinch of salt and a dash of pepper. Mix well and use as a dressing for salads or as a dip for vegetables.

about the present plight of their homeland. So in rather a vain attempt to get her mind off her sorrows we discussed cooking, and exchanged recipes over a good strong cup of tea. And this in spite of the fact that neither of us could understand the other's language very well.

Like most Europeans, this Mrs. J. M. is an extremely good cook and she gave me English translations of some of her favorite tried and tested recipes. With Hungary so very much in the spotlight, and in our efforts to obtain variety in meals I thought it would be interesting to feature Hungarian recipes this morning. Some of them may amuse you but you can change them to suit your self and at least they are somewhat different. So let's salute Hungary in her present appalling predicament. The following are literal translations and all are really excellent.

STEAK IN HUNGARIAN STYLE
Take 1 pound of beef and slice thin. Sprinkle with salt and pepper. Sauté in butter for 10 minutes. Add 1/2 cup of red wine and 1/2 cup of water. Simmer for 1 hour. Add 1/2 cup of sour cream and 1/2 cup of lemon juice. Simmer for 10 minutes. Serve with mashed potatoes.

SCRAMBLED RICE
Melt 1 tablespoon of butter in a saucepan. Add 1/2 cup of rice and 1/2 cup of water. Cook for 10 minutes. Add 1/2 cup of sour cream and 1/2 cup of lemon juice. Simmer for 10 minutes. Serve with mashed potatoes.

VEAL STEAKS IN LEMON SAUCE
Boil the steaks with salt and pepper for 10 minutes. Sauté in butter for 10 minutes. Add 1/2 cup of red wine and 1/2 cup of water. Simmer for 1 hour. Add 1/2 cup of sour cream and 1/2 cup of lemon juice. Simmer for 10 minutes. Serve with mashed potatoes.

A LOVELIER YOU

By Mary Sue Miller

MUSCLE TONE. Next to overeating, flabby muscles are the main cause of figure problems. Sagging flesh, fatty bulges and limp posture. For having and holding a good figure, muscles must be kept strong and firm.

This routine, performed daily, builds a taut network. 1. Stretch out on floor, raise right leg high and with it describe large figure 8s, forwards and backwards. Next draw small 8s, letting all motion come from ankle. Repeat with left leg. 2. Stand, raise arms to sides at shoulder level and draw large 8s with arms, small with wrists in both directions. 3. Swing torso from waist in forward and reverse 8s.

HIP REDUCING ROUTINES
You can diet until you become featherlight and still be hip-heavy. Reduction in the hips is assured only by exercise. For a set of quick and effective ones, send for my leaflet, Hip Reducing Routines. Write me in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope and five cents in coin to cover handling.
